Tape Callmaker

The Tape Callmaker stores up to 400 numbers magnetically – locates them rapidly – dials any one of them automatically and eliminates human dialling errors.

Any number that you can dial throughout the United Kingdom and most parts of the world is now obtainable at the simple press of a button.

The callmaker is the model secretary that sits by your telephone just waiting to make your calls.

The Tape Callmaker has your numbers - taped

With a Tape Callmaker at your elbow, you do not only free your secretary from the directory-delve-and-dial routine, but give her the chance to get on with more important or pressing work.

You both gain – from speedier calls and greater efficiency. Almost without lifting a finger!

Again, the salesman with a large list of clients or agents working from his home address, can spend half his working day making telephone calls. With a fair slice of it devoted to looking up numbers and dialling codes.

With the Tape Callmaker's pushbutton efficiency, he can squeeze more into every day.

The Tape Callmaker reduces the switchboard operator's manual dialling task, allowing her to devote more time to other calls.

Tape Callmaker

The Tape Callmaker – a combined automatic index file and repertory dialler – records and stores up to four hundred telephone numbers (up to 18 digits each) on magnetic tape and dials them automatically. It can be used on most automatic exchange lines, all switchboards, or a variety of extension systems.

Space is provided for written names and telephone numbers, which can be added, altered, or removed at will.

To record a number, you plug in the dial unit – and dial.

To locate a number, a touch of a 2 way drive switch spins the tape through the alphabet in seconds, final positioning is by thumbwheel.

To make a call, you lift the handset, wait for the dialling tone . . . and press the button.

It's as simple, and as speedy, as that !
