

Special Range Telephones

For our customers who want something a little out of the ordinary, Post Office Telecommunications offer a range of Special Telephones.

They will come in a variety of styles, materials and colours, and as you browse through this leaflet we hope you will find something to suit the decor of your home and to reflect your own individual style.

As you see, our range of Special Telephones will give you a choice of modern or traditional design styles, with conventional dials or the increasingly popular push-buttons.

All of the telephones in our Special Range incorporate modern technology, and are being manufactured to meet the high technical standards that we demand in order to give all our customers the best possible telephone service.

Special Telephones cost extra, but we believe they represent good value for money.

To become a 'Special' Customer, or for details of charges and other information, contact your local Telephone Sales Office – the address is in your Telephone Directory, or just dial 100 and ask the operator for Freefone 888. On introduction, our range is planned to include these Special Telephones, more will be introduced later.
